

Hello Dog University Family,

We are aware that many dogs are falling ill to a mystery respiratory disease that is currently spreading throughout the country. While the exact cause is still unknown, it is certainly not any time to panic, but it is important to pay attention and mitigate any risks where we can. Keep you pet up to date on vaccines, minimize exposure to other dogs, and avoid contact with other dog's showing respiratory signs.

Your dogs' health and well-being will always be our priority. All dogs that attend Dog University for daycare, boarding, or training are fully vaccinated and we are vigilant to identify any symptoms.

Symptoms to watch for:

- Lethargy
- Coughing
- Sneezing
- Eye/nose discharge
- Decreased appetite
- Difficulty breathing

If your pet is showing signs of illness, please do NOT bring them into a daycare/boarding/grooming facility, instead, you should contact your veterinarian ASAP as this can quickly progress to pneumonia.
